

Chris Batha at Rio Brazos

Chris Batha has over thirty years' wing and clay shooting experience and a life-long passion for fine guns. Chris is acknowledged to be one of the highest qualified and most experienced shooting instructors and gunfitters in the world today.

In addition to representing several renowned 'Best' gunmakers in the U.K., Europe and the USA, he has formal qualifications from a variety of governing bodies of shooting: The British Association of Shooting and Conservation, British City and Guilds, The National Association of Sports Coaches and is one of only five coaches worldwide to hold the position of Fellow of the Institute of Clay Shooting Instructors. He is also the former Director and Senior Instructor of the British Clay Pigeon Shooting Association.

Formerly the Senior Instructor and Gunfitter for London Gunmakers E.J. Churchill, he has shot on three continents and in 14 countries. He derives great pleasure from his membership in the Worshipful Company of Gunmakers and the coveted 100 Straight Club.

His articles on the various aspects of wing and clay shooting appear in many magazines and publications monthly, both in Europe and the United States and his television series 'Wingshooting the World with Chris Batha' airs on the Outdoor Channel HD2.

His first book, 'Breaking Clays' is in its second edition and is now published in three languages. He is presently working on his second book.

Chris will be available at 'Rio Brazos' for gunfittings, book signings and have examples of his 'Charles Boswell' award-winning shotguns, on the 16th, 17th, 18th of March, 2007.

He will have 3 time periods available on each day:
